

Pacific Northwest real estate appraiser Alice Bonifer works on both sides of Snoqualmie Pass, Washington. When Alice and her assistant find their next appointment has been cancelled by a sniper's bullet, their research takes a decidedly different twist. Try as they might to remain innocent bystanders, Alice and the rest of her team are drawn into events extending far beyond one man's death. Arriving at a remote rural new home site they discover the builder lying dead under a tarp. Their researching skills pull them ever deeper into the puzzle; a discrepancy in a floor plan yields clues to crimes in three states, a cold case murder and a series of multi-million dollar real estate scams. In a violent climax that nearly costs Alice her life, the sheriff and state police sharpshooters zero in on the sniper - but not before the killer has gotten off one last single shot.
