

Unfriendly Skies is the story of Jonathon Black, a serial killer who works for one of the most powerful cosmetic companies in the world. As he goes on business trips for the company, his dark side emerges. He rents cars and strangles his victims with a painted blue rope. Agents Tony Valentino and Eddie Scarfo are assigned to a case involving a vicious murder. They have to coordinate the capture of one of the most hated men in America. Cathy Ryan, a district attorney; Carol Longly, chief of police in Gadsden, Alabama; Patrice Jones, a crafty news reporter; and Marvin Dillion, an expensively dressed New York lawyer, all get caught up in one of the most high-profiled cases of the time. The question they are all asking themselves: Could Jonathan Blacks troubled childhood cause him to prey on young girls?
