

FRAGS

FRAGS takes place on January 11, 1991, on the eve of The Gulf War, in a Columbia University faculty office and includes flashbacks of the professors service in the Vietnam war in the late 1960s. Professor Frank Dotson has built a brilliant career in biology by secretly using the work of a fellow soldier, Harry Emerson, who was killed in early 1968. As the novel opens, Dotson is about to open a letter from another Harry Emerson, and this event triggers an eruption of flashbacks as he tries to figure out if all his work for the past twenty years is about to collapse in a scandal. When the letter writer arrives, he is indeed the son of Professor Dotson's Vietnam mentor, and now Dotson has to decide whether to fess up or tough it out, continuing to deny the influence of Harry Emerson.
